The needle cannot be set wrong;

Can be used successfully without other instructions than accompany the Machine;

Letter from Goldwin Smith.

HIS IMPRESSIONS OF THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The London Daily News publishes the following letter from Professor Smith, written at Boston on the day after the Presidential election:

To the Editor of the Daily News:—Sir: A day which, if I mistake not, will be long memorable in history, has passed, and the American people have decided, by a great majority, that free institutions are not a failure, and that the hope of self-government shall not be quenched for themselves or for the world.

Under the abused name of the "Democratic" party all the enemies of the republic—the Southern planter, the social aristocrat of the North, and the Irish of the great cities—strangely, to rather naturally leagued with tyranny against freedom, have made a combined effort to subvert the object of their common hatred in its hour of peril; and they have received a disastrous, perhaps a final overthrow.

In this city, notwithstanding the greatness of the issue and the fierce excitement of parties, the election has gone off with perfect tranquility. In the lowest wards the crowd at the polls was almost as orderly as a crowd going into church. A few jokes and jibes were the only signs of a party conflict.

I have looked in vain for the evidences of a tyranny of the majority. The orators and journals of both parties have spoken their sentiments with the utmost freedom. The banners of both parties have hung unmolested across the public streets; the procession of both parties have moved unmolested round all parts of the city. Nor could I perceive that social divisions were carried to the extreme. I have seen, through the contest, leading men of the opposite parties in friendly intercourse with each other.

I can scarcely conceive a nation in the midst of a great political struggle, more orderly, more respectful of each other's rights, more observant of the law.

By the defeat of the Democratic party, England as well as America has escaped a great danger. The concessions which the Democrats were prepared to make to the slave-owners, they would certainly have had to balance by a "spirited foreign policy," of which England would have been the object. This party, as you know, are inveterately hostile to us. They rest on the slave-owners and the Irish, both of them our mortal enemies—and the only enemies that, but for the reckless malignity of our aristocratic press, we should have in this nation.

The best blood of this city is in the war. Almost every family one hears of has paid the tribute of a life. There are no doubt very mixed elements in the army; but on the whole, I do not believe that any country has ever received a more costly free-will offering of the blood of its children.

The tone of society, so far from being indecently gay, is subdued, and great parties are thought not in good taste. This fact has come distinctly under my notice.

The more intercourse I have with these people the more convinced I am that they have in them the love of their community and the devotion to their cause, which, after all their calamities and errors, will bring them out victorious, to the confusion of their enemies and ours.

I am, &c., GOLDWIN SMITH.

Boston, Nov. 9, 1864.

THE BANKRUPT BILL.—The following is a synopsis of the Bankrupt bill which recently passed the United States House of Representatives:

1st. The discharge of the honest debtor on the surrender of his property; and

2d. The protection of the creditor against the fraudulent practices and reckless conduct of his debtor.

The District Courts are to be made Courts of Bankruptcy, and the bankrupt business, where there is no opposing interest, is to be transacted by officers to be called registers, a Massachusetts idea, incorporated into the English banking law of 1861. When there are opposing interests they are to make up the case for the decisions of the Judge. They are to be the hands and eyes of the Court, but are neither to be clothed with its power or its discretion. Receiving fixed salaries, it will be their interest as well as their duty to discourage litigation.

Creditors are to have assignees, but the law ignores the cumbrous machinery of official assignees, accountants general. Insolvency is a matter between the bankrupt and his creditors, and can best be managed by them under the direction of the Courts. Every question raised by litigants contesting the bankrupt's discharge must be heard and decided in open Court, in which respect this bill differs from other laws. Commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court are to establish a code of rules to establish uniform action.

Honest debtors are to receive an allowance, so that they may not be turned upon the world without a currency note, if they have surrendered their effects for administration and distribution among their creditors.

Another provision gives a debtor an opportunity to meet his creditors, and if they are satisfied of his integrity and ability, to wind up his affairs under a trust-deed with the same effect as if the proceedings had been conducted in the Court of bankruptcy.

A WAR CLOUD IN EUROPE.—The New Free Press of Vienna has, in its number of the 17th November the following items of news:

The telegraph brings us to-day from Odessa the news that 60,000 Russians are going to be echeloned along our frontier to the northeast, and in Bessarabia. If this news is confirmed it can only be explained by the fact that the Russian government foresees eventualities which give it the idea of concentrating a large force on its European frontiers. Of what nature can those eventualities be? Is Russia pressing forward movements against which it wishes to prevent the counter blows upon its own provinces, or are they preparing at St. Petersburg to march a force toward the south, occupy the Danubian principalities, and "fish in troubled waters?" Austria, not less than Western Europe, could not look quietly on the movements of such large bodies of Russian troops, and the news that reaches us to-day is greatly of a nature to cause a sensation. While we are inclined to look upon these movements of troops as hostile to our empire on the other side of the Rhine and of the Mincio, Austria will be regarded as the outpost of the coalition which menaces the liberal movement in France and Italy. Although they may believe at Paris and Turin in a coalition of the North we do not believe in such a bond in between Russia, Austria and Prussia, for the reason that we do not see what would be the interest, Russian or Prussian, which could be wronged or put in sufferance by a pacification of Italian pursuits in the expense of Austria. At the point to which matters have come to-day, every means of weakening of Austria would be a source of profit for Prussia, whose rival finds itself struck in Germany; and for Russia, whose antagonism would be stricken in the East. In the hour of danger there will not come to us from that quarter either protection to our rear, or aid on the field of battle.

The movements of Russian troops in the neighborhood of the frontiers are not cause for tranquillity to Austria. They constitute rather a real danger to us. To Austria also are applicable, in a certain sense, the words that Gen. La Marmora uttered quite lately in the midst of the Italian Parliament: "We ought always to go forward; for behind us there is a yawning abyss!"

Standing Armies.

Adam Smith, author of the "Wealth of Nations," based his great treatise on Political Economy upon the doctrine that labor "is the only accurate measure of value, and that it is primarily, the source of all weath. All writers on this science since his day have adopted his theory, and it is now universally received as true. This truth granted, it will follow that the production of wealth is enhanced by the right management and proper division of labor, and that the greatest degree of national prosperity will be attained by developing, to the fullest possible extent, all the branches of a varied industrial system; provided the products of labor do not exceed, in quantity the demand made for them.

Situated so favorably as this nation is in respect to the rest of the world, there need be no apprehensions relative to the matter of keeping the laws of production and consumption nicely and evenly balanced; for the marts of all countries are open to our producers, and our surplus products can find, as they have ever done, a ready sale abroad.

Such being the case, it will be the policy of our nation to enlarge the field of labor in all its parts, to encourage the people to become producers, and to so regulate its policy that the fewest possible number of persons may be withdrawn from industrial pursuits.

In reckoning the expense of maintaining a permanent military establishment, it must be remembered that men employed as soldiers are not merely consumers, but also non-producers, and that their labor is diverted from a profitable field where it might be productive of wealth, and so, wholly lost.

Accordingly, in an economical point of view, great loss is incurred by keeping a standing army. Should our people ever consent to a permanent separation of this Union, a large military force would have to be constantly maintained for the purpose of defense, and the growth of the Nation would be arrested, and all its interests would suffer thereby.

Experience has demonstrated that, except during short periods of emergent danger, a nation cannot maintain more than a hundredth part of its population in arms and idleness. To support a permanent military force, even so large as this, will severely tax the industry and energies of a people.

But these considerations are of inferior importance compared with those of a more weighty character which readily occur. The chief objection against a large standing army is found in the liability of the civil authority and military power to clash with each other, and in the danger of the subversion of liberty. Whenever the civil and military authorities are brought into opposition it is not difficult to foretell which of them will suffer in the contest. The muniments of freedom and the institutions of civil law almost invariably fall before the irregular, but powerful assaults of military force. The laws in their operation, are restricted to prescribed forms; the military usually acknowledges no restraint, but, employs every attainable means to accomplish its ends.

By reasons of its proximity to aggressive and despotic governments, it may be necessary for a nation to maintain a large military force in order that it may not be defenceless, and so fall an easy prey to the ambition of other powers. But even though a nation be so situated, many of the dangers to liberty, before spoken of, may be met and turned aside by the use of precautionary measures in the formation and management of standing armies. By preserving a close connection between the people and the soldiery, and by keeping the idea of a profession of arms distinct from other pursuits, as much out of view as possible, respect for civil authority among all classes will be in little danger of being shaken.

By viewing this matter in its most favorable light, we ought not, however, to try to reconcile ourselves to the probable necessity of supporting a large standing army. If this country be permanently divided, our government will be compelled to keep on foot such a force as will be able to defend it against the strength of the neighboring power. Thus the two rival States, watching each other, would exert themselves to the utmost, to get the military preponderance, and the pursuit of arms, instead of the arts of peace, would become the chief employment of both. It will be easily understood that such a condition of things would be the greatest calamity that could befall our people. This evil can be prevented only by overwhelming the insurgents who have assumed to set up a government in opposition to lawful authority. Our people have the means of safety in their own hands.

Cutting Government Timber.—Mr. Edward Tichnor, convicted last July of unlawfully cutting or causing to be cut, timber upon the Government lands, has received by the steamer Oregon, the full and unconditional pardon of the President, with the remission of the fine ($18,750,) adjudged against him, and costs of suit.

The document is an interesting one, possessing the signatures of the President, Abraham Lincoln, and the Secretary of State, Wm. H. Seward, with the great seal of the United States, affixed. There is nothing remarkable in the chirography of those distinguished individuals, but no doubt Mr. Tichnor admires the hurried scrawls that were traced by them upon the document, as they relieve him from considerable trouble in the connection we there find them. The law to protect Government timber is supposed to have been especially intended to apply to live oak grown upon the Southern coast, which is extremely valuable for supplying our navy yards with the best of timber, and was liable to be carried off by the cargo by speculative capitalists. The same law would work great hardship if made to work in the mining regions of this coast.

Plenty of Rabbits.—Some one with a vivid imagination, traveling over the Sierra Nevada from Virginia City to Dutch Flat, says rabbits are so plenty on the summit that they presented the appearance of a cotton patch in a gale of wind. How a man with such lively perceptions [illegible] by himself, when [illegible].

Fate of Indians.—The Indian troubles in Trinity county, California, seem to be at an end, as the bands that have ranches there have been taken to the Peninsula, opposite Fort Humboldt. The Humboldt Times gives great praise to the battalion of Mountaineers who have accomplished this result.

Reported Failure.—A correspondent in San Francisco says, there is quite a stir there over the reported failure of a business house at Umatilla, whose liabilities are $20,000 in that place. No names are mentioned.

Legal tenders somewhat stiffer to-day, owing to the scarcity.

San Francisco, Feb. 14.—Walter S. Denio, melter and refiner in the United States Branch Mint, died this morning of congestion of the brain.

The Superintendent of the Mint wishes to appoint Mr. Eckfield as melter and refiner until instructions can be received from Washington. Sub Treasurer Cleveland holds that there is no legal authority for such an action, and that if Mr. Eckfield is appointed, Government will have no security for the $1,000,000 that is charged against the melter and refiner. Mr. Denio's bondsmen are released by his death, meanwhile there is no business transacted at the mint except the payment of the depositors.

Rates of passage per Constitution to-morrow—cabins, $150 and $110; steerage, $35.

The steamer Pacific met the ship Fanny at sea on the 11th instant in a shipwrecked condition and rescued her crew.

Additional particulars of the Camanche's trial trip confirm the report that everything worked to a charm. She will probably be at once reviewed by government and placed on duty.

The line is almost wholly destroyed for that distance—sixty-five miles—but will be placed in working order in a few days. All business will be transacted by pony express messengers, the first of which will probably come through on Monday.

A consolidation was effected yesterday between the Uncle Sam and Overman mining companies. Uncle Sam stock advanced to $450 per foot; Overman $150.

San Francisco, Feb. 12.—Wm. McDaniels sues the estate of Austin E. Smith, deceased, for $3,000 with ten per cent. interest from August, 1861, alleging that Smith received said money from him but never paid it over.

About 150 passengers go East on the steamer to-morrow.

The California Lead Pipe Company incorporated yesterday.

The funeral of Walter S. Denio to-day was largely attended.

There is no new phase in mint matters. It seems probable that the mint will remain closed until orders can be received from Washington.

Arrangements have been made for two races between the celebrated horses "Lodi" and "Norfolk," to take place at Sacramento in May and September.

A woman named Callahan had two hundred dollar set of false teeth stolen from her mouth while she was asleep in her house, on Stafford street last week.

King, under sentence of death, Foster, sentenced to three years and Ferry to two years in the penitentiary, and one other, imprisoned for larceny. The Sheriff immediately offered $500 reward for the capture of King, and $200 each for Foster and Ferry.

About two o'clock in the night Ferry was taken near Deadwood, some ten miles distant. This forenoon King was found in the chapparell, about a mile from town. Foster and the other man are still at liberty.

We are willing to trust the [illegible] in the hands of the [illegible] with a simple statement [illegible] knowledge of its own [illegible] by the soldiers [illegible] explanation of Gen. Smith [illegible].

[illegible] through it, his [illegible] and began praying with the poor wounded and dying men, Gen. Smith seeing and hearing [illegible] battery to play at the moment, ordered it to cease firing until Jacobs had done praying; and when he rode away, [illegible] these things fresh upon him, he exclaimed—"Since the day when our Lord Jesus Christ went up to Heaven nothing has been seen on earth like the Christian Commission."

The people's estimation of it may be seen by their unparalleled contributions to its Treasury.

A Startling Idea.—Chaos, writing from Oregon for the Alta, says that the "larger portion of the people of Oregon and adjoining Territories" are leaving in disgust to get "south into California's brighter skies." Rather a brilliant idea, but one that will astonish the population of this State and adjoining Territories. To see in print, Portland does not wear [illegible] and deserted appearance" even with Chaos away. There is not a house to let in town, but many who would like to rent. To-day, Portland is the most certainly and steadily prospering city on the Pacific coast, outside of San Francisco, Chaos to the contrary.

Raising Bounty Volunteers.—We see by the Statesman that the citizens of Josephine county, have formed a volunteer association, for the purpose of raising bounties for the quota to be raised in that county. Contributions were reported as follows: Waldo, $257; Althouse, $[illegible]; Canyon Creek, $150; [illegible], $[illegible]; Briggs, $372; Williamsburg, $[illegible]. Total $2,[illegible]. The meeting resolved to pay three years' men $100 bounty and those enlisting for a shorter term, in proportion. Certainly they are showing a most commendable and patriotic degree of liberality that reflects credit on all concerned.

From Canyon City.—Mr. Mayhew, the Agent of Canyon City Stage Company, informs us that the newly discovered mines on Clark's Creek, twenty miles north-east of Canyon City, are attracting great attention, having been found very rich and extensive. They bid fair to out-rival Canyon Creek. Some consider them the richest diggings found in the Blue Mountains. Weather was growing milder and mining had commenced, as the snows were melting. The great amount of snow on the mountains made a good prospect for hill diggings.

Social Amenities.—The Sacramento Bee has a somewhat long article upon the party given at the Occidental, in San Francisco, by Mrs. General McDowell not long since, and claims that the notoriety given the affair before it took place and since is entirely uncalled for and ill natured, resulting from the ill-feeling against the Military Department on the part of a minor paper, and a desire to breed a muss in the union ranks by the Democratic Press, San Francisco. The Bee disclaims the charge that the party had a political intent.

Curious Love Affair.—The Esmeralda Union has a sensational account of a suicide committed at Aurora by one of the daughters of the moon. Having become suddenly enamored of two celestial "buskies," and not being able to commit bigamy or decide her preference, she took leave of the world by a dose of "pazen." The Union commends the action of the druggist who gave her a good dose.

Destroyed by Fire.—We regret to learn that the sawmill of Abrams & Co. on Columbia river, about thirteen miles above the Cascades, was destroyed by fire last Saturday evening or afternoon. It originated from a fire employed about the premises, which spread and destroyed the mill. The loss is about $7,000, but the enterprising proprietors are going on directly to put up the mill anew, and hope to be running again in about two months from this time.

At The Dalles.—A gentleman just down the Columbia informs us that the weather at the Dalles is rather severe. Good sleighing is abundant, and more snow was falling yesterday morning when he left there. The great amusement was skating, and Celilo afforded a fine pond for the exercise. The railroad was extensively used to carry the lovers of the fine sport to and from the scene of operations.

Volunteering South.—The Sentinel says that Lieutenant Sprague has sixty-five men enlisted; ten of whom came from Josephine; and Lieutenant Underwood has twenty men enlisted for the Oregon Cavalry.

The Northern Mines.—A California paper says: "The emigration from [illegible] is nearly as large as the emigration to the Northern mines. The resources of that country will be found inadequate for the influx of population, and the bright anticipations of too many are soon to be blasted." The writer of the above evidently has a poor [illegible] of the "Northern Mines," which needs something more than to be taken in by a peep at Owyhee, John Day, Powder, Salmon, and Boise rivers. Scores of [illegible] and a thousand other quiet camps where [illegible] of industrious miners are enriching themselves annually in Oregon and Idaho. We are not in favor of enticing men who own farms away from their homes and families, but whoever saw a "sore head" leave this country and not say bitter in California? "Chaos" [illegible] succeed at last in "thumming" a passage to San Francisco, and is out with another [illegible] in the Alta, but any person acquainted with [illegible] and [illegible] we very well know how much reliance can be placed upon his reports. The following is [illegible] a disinterested spectator of the progress we are making, as published in the S. F. Bulletin, over the signature of "G. V. S." The writer says: "To those who are now idle I would say, give up mining as bad diggings; stop running about in search of a lump of fortune, but settle down and work it out in a natural way, and then you will enjoy the gain of an ounce more than a gain of a pound, which you get in lumps without labor. Oregon is the place for you. Uncle Sam will give you a homestead of 160 acres for the small sum of $10, and large tracts here to choose from, with the advantages above spoken of. These fields [illegible] not remain unappropriated long, and the first [illegible] take and hold on are bound to be the wealthy people of the State. Portland, I venture to say, is the wealthiest town of its size on the continent, nor has its wealth been brought here. It is the return of its own perseverance. All its old residents, and they came here poor, are now wealthy. The city is peaceful and moral, and its people honest and sensible." What a pity "Chaos" did not find that out!

Circuit Court Calendar.—The Circuit Court for Multnomah County, Judge Shattuck presiding, met at the Court House in this city yesterday. The following gentlemen were sworn as Grand Jurors: E. P. Wright, Jos. McDonald, Edward Fitzhenry, O. D. Buck, John Foster, John Slavin and Wm. Cornell,—the latter was chosen as Foreman. The trial Jurors present, were: Gideon Tibbetts, J. W. Buchanan, J. Kohlitz, P. Raleigh, John Hankins, O. Risley, S. A. Gladstone, J. Moore, Josiah Failing, Thomas Stephens, H. Northrup, Felix Landis, Wm. Masters. The following were excused until Monday: J. A. Mathews, A. H. McCann, W. H. Burke. A number of Attorneys took the oath of allegiance, under the requirements of the new law. The case of Gellatly v. Goodman, et al, v. J. B. Wren, went by default of defendant, and judgment was entered for the sum of $306.75. Several demurrers were submitted, and Court adjourned to meet at the usual hour this morning.

Pardon Received.—Purser Murdock yesterday delivered the official document, signed by President Lincoln, and bearing the seal of the United States, which grants a full and unconditional pardon to Mr. Edward Tichnor. The case is well known to our citizens, and after a full examination of it, Mr. Lincoln says: "I am convinced that it is one proper for the exercise of Executive clemency." It relieves Mr. Tichnor of one day's imprisonment, and a fine of $18,750, besides the expenses of prosecution, for cutting and removing timber from the public lands, in Coos county, for which he was convicted, at the July term, 1864, of the United States District Court for Oregon.

Jacob's Patent.—The Scientific American of January 2d, contains an extended account and illustrations of the patent of H. S. Jacobs, for wheel manufacturing. The machinery takes the wagon wheel, after the spokes have been inserted in the hub, and from this stage onward completes the job, so that it is in all respects a finished piece of workmanship. The machine was patented through the Patent Agency of the above paper, September 15th, 1863, by H. S. Jacobs, of this city, in England, France and Belgium. A Company has been formed to work them in New York city. Mr. Howe, also of this city, we believe claims to be the inventor of this machine, at least it is based upon his original ideas, and he has applied for the patent of a better invention for the same and additional purposes. They are Oregon inventions at all events.

The Lecture last Evening.—The lecture upon Egypt and the Holy Land, delivered before the Ladies' Association, in behalf of the Christian Commission, by Governor Lyon, was very well attended last evening, and proved to be a highly interesting occasion. The Governor is eminently qualified, from his personal experiences and observation, to speak upon the subject he had chosen, and the descriptions and references made during the evening, carried conviction to the hearts of his hearers that they had not only subserved an important object, but were intellectually repaid by their attendance.

Commercial Matters.—We understand that four steamships will be placed in regular communication with Portland and San Francisco, after the present month, giving us a steamer a week. Two of these will go no farther north, the others making alternate trips to Victoria. The bark W. W. Alsop was to leave San Francisco on the 9th with a full cargo for Portland, and would soon be followed by the bark Industry. The steamship Oregon comes full freighted, and was unable to bring all that was offered. The schooner Isabel arrived at San Francisco after a five day's run. Oregon flour was quoted on the 9th at $11 50 in San Francisco.

Eagle Creek Mills.—The steamer Wilson G. Hunt takes an engine, boilers, quartz and saw mills, lately manufactured in this city, for the Eagle Creek mines, on her passage to the Cascades to-day. This is pushing improvements forward with a double force. The machinery is [illegible] connected, and was made by Mr. Monnastes, for Messrs. Terrin & Chase.

Theatre.—"The Mysterious Stranger," a Parisian drama, was produced at Willamette Theatre last evening. To-night the great sensation drama of "The Octoroon" will be repeated, by request of many who witnessed the performance on Saturday evening. We hope the play goers will find a greater degree of gentility displayed by the ushers of the dress circle.

Home Again.—We are glad to greet our fellow townsman, Mr. E. Weeks, looking quite hearty after a three months' cruise to the Sandwich Islands. He was one of the passengers on the last voyage of the regular Packet to Honolulu, arriving there on the 31st of December. After a sojourn of a month and more at the Islands, he returned to this city, via San Francisco, arriving yesterday.

Suspended.—The Daily Evening Tribune of this city has not been issued since Friday of last week, and, we are informed by the late Publisher, will be indefinitely deferred, as it failed to meet the current expenses of publication.

Missing.—We miss the first volume of the Weekly Oregonian, from our office, and will be greatly obliged to any person who will return it or give us the desired information as to where it may be found. The volume is for the year beginning with December 1850.

For Stock.—The steamer Julia, of the O. S. N. Company's line, has lately been finely fitted for the spring trade, and is on the berth for horses, cattle, and other kinds of stock, for the upper Columbia.

Laid Up.—The steamer Conflict has been temporarily laid up, as it is succeeded in the Monticello trade by the steamer Rescue, her late competitor in opposition.

Personal.—Among the passengers of the Constitution from Panama, we noticed the names of Mr. Harris Seymour and Mr. Oren Joynt, residents of Portland.

In Session at Washington.—The Hudson Bay Treaty commissioners are in session at Washington for the purpose of adjusting matters between the Company and the United States. [illegible] Cushing represents the interests of Oregon and Washington Territory.

Father Beeson.—This monomaniac is announced to lecture at Jacksonville, where he has recently arrived. The Sentinel says that as he can do no harm, people should pity and not censure. Wonder how Father Beeson likes that.

SUSPENDED.—The Daily Evening Tribune of this city has not been issued since Friday of last week, and, we are informed by the late Publisher, will be indefinitely deferred, as it failed to meet the current expenses of publication.

MISSING.—We miss the first volume of the WEEKLY OREGONIAN from our office, and will be greatly obliged to any person who will return it, or give us the desired information as to where it may be found. The volume is for the year beginning with December 1850.

FOR STOCK.—The steamer Julia, of the O. S. N. Company's line, has lately been finely fitted up for the spring trade, and is on the berth for horses, cattle, and other kinds of stock, for the upper Columbia.

[illegible].—The steamer [illegible] has been temporarily laid up, and is succeeded in the Monticello trade by the steamer [illegible], her late competitor in opposition.

PERSONAL.—Among the passengers of the Constitution, from Panama, are noted the names of Mr. Harris Seymour, and Mr. Oren Joynt, old residents of Portland.

IN SESSION AT WASHINGTON.—The Hudson's Bay Treaty Commissioners are in session at Washington for the purpose of adjusting matters between the Company and the United States. Caleb Cushing represents the interests of Oregon and Washington Territory.

FATHER BEESON.—This monomaniac is anxious to be heard at Jacksonville, where he has finally arrived. The [illegible] says that as he can do no harm, people should pity and not censure. Wonder how Father Beeson likes that?

THE STORY ABOUT THE ATTEMPT TO SUPERSEDE GENERAL THOMAS.—A correspondent of a Western paper gives the following as the facts in regard to the alleged movement to supersede General Thomas, just before the battles at Nashville. [illegible] telegraphed Thomas that he was rather slow in moving, and ordered him to attack Hood. Thomas sent back a reply to Grant, saying that he was not ready to move, and could not move until six days were completed, and if Grant had any man he had more confidence in than himself, to send him at once to relieve him, and he would take a subordinate position. Grant replied that there was not a General in the army he had more confidence in, and to go ahead and do what he thought was best. Grant said, probably, the distant view he had taken was wrong; and thus the matter ended.

THE RESULT OF EMANCIPATION IN MARYLAND.—The abolition of slavery in Maryland is being attended with the most gratifying results. The Baltimore American says a steady stream of emigrants from sister States, particularly Pennsylvania, is pouring in, now that a free labor State has become [illegible] county of the State large sales of land have taken place during the last two months, and the purchasers are men who intend to settle, and do not purchase for the sake of speculation. The Denton Union publishes, in Caroline county, [illegible] the sale of [illegible] farms at good prices, all to Pennsylvanians. The Somerset Herald says that [illegible] is wanted, Northerners continue to visit this county (Somerset) looking for farms.

A WHALE KILLED BY THE SCREW OF A STEAMER.—M. Poncel, chief engineer of the [illegible], steamer, belonging to the Messageries Imperiales, informs the Semaphore of Marseilles that a singular incident occurred during the voyage from Alexandria. When entering the Straits of Messina, on the evening of the 12th of October, a strong shock was felt [illegible] on board and a monstrous animal was noticed in the water near the screw, which had inflicted a deep and mortal wound on a whale just behind the head. With some difficulty the dead monster was extricated and hoisted on deck, when it was found to measure 21 feet 4 inches in length, with a maximum girth of 13 feet 9 inches.

NATIONAL BANKS.—According to the report of the Controller of the Currency, printed December 12, two hundred and eighty-two new banks have been organized during the past year, and one hundred and sixty eight State banks have changed into National ones. Of the one hundred and [illegible] first organized, sixty-seven have been conversions of State banks, and nearly all the papers now being filed are for the change of State banks into national associations. There are now in existence under the national currency act five hundred and eighty-[illegible] associations.

There is a trunk factory in San Francisco employing forty men and turning out forty dozen of trunks, valises and carpet sacks per week.

"Take physic, Pomp," is the injunction of the immortal SHAKSPEARE. Had he lived in our day, he would have said, "Take NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP, all you who are troubled with Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Whooping Cough, or any Pulmonary difficulty." DELAY NOT then to heed the injunction. A timely use of this remedy will SAVE many precious LIVES.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY

HALF A CENTURY,

WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING

Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat,

Influenza, Whooping, Cough, Croup,

Liver Complaint, Bronchitis,

Difficulty of Breathing,

Asthma, and every affection of the

THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST,

INCLUDING EVEN

CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms—a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known, so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

S. H. FINLEY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.

E. BOYDEN, M. D., Exeter, Me.

ALEXANDER HATCH, M. D., China, Me.

R. FELLOWS, M. D., Hill, N. H.

W. H. WEBB, M. D., Cape Vincent, N. Y.

W. B. LYNCH, M. D., Auburn, N. Y.

ABRAHAM SKILLMAN, M. D., Boundbrook, N. J.

H. D. MARTIN, M. D., Mansfield, Pa.

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of WISTAR'S BALSAM have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any attempt on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own country.

TO CALIFORNIANS AND OREGONIANS.

After October 1, 1863, all genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM of WILD CHERRY for the Pacific Coast will be enclosed in a new wrapper which will bear the printed names of both SETH W. FOWLE & CO., Boston, Mass., and JOHN D. PARK, Cincinnati, Ohio, as well as fac-simile of the signatures of "I. BUTTS," "SANFORD & PARK," and "H. WISTAR, M. D."

LE DOYEN'S

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK

—AND—

IODINE ALTERATIVE

CLEANSE THE BLOOD.

WITH corrupt, disordered or vitiated Blood you must be sick all over. It may burst out in pimples or sores, or in some active disease, or it may merely keep you listless, depressed and good for nothing. But you cannot have good health while your blood is impure. Sarsaparilla purges out these impurities and stimulates the organs of life into vigorous action, restoring the health and repelling disease. Hence it rapidly cures a variety of complaints which are caused by impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula or King's Evil, Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Cancer or Cancerous Tumors, Sore Eyes, Female Diseases, such as Retention, Irregularity, Suppression, Whites, Sterility, Syphilis or Venereal Diseases, Liver Complaints and Heart Diseases.

Blood and Liver.

This valuable Medicine is now available to the public for the cure of

SCROFULA, CONSUMPTION, RHEUMATISM, CANCER,
HEART, LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES,
NEURALGIA, NERVOUS AFFECTIONS, BRONCHITIS,
DYSPEPSIA, &c.

AS A TONIC,

its operations are evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increasing the appetite. In cases of Dyspepsia, Emaciation and Debility, an increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Are you sick, feeble and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged and your feelings uncomfortable? These symptoms are often the prelude to serious illness. Some fit of sickness is creeping over you, and should be averted by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Le Doyen's Sarsaparilla, and cleanse out the disordered system—purify the blood, and let the fluids move on unobstructed in health again.

AS A LITHONTRIPTIC,

it has no equal; being chemically combined with Iodine, it possesses in a high degree the power of dissolving Stone in the Bladder, and ureters of the kidneys, preventing gravel formation and enlargement of the prostrate glands, irritation of the neck of the bladder, dropsy, etc.

Politeness—Insular and Continental.

Without politeness the world of man would be little better than the world of brutes. Civilized men are far from unanimous; but then they agree to differ civilly. In society people often make war; but in good society they never declare it. Good breeding requires that even enemies should avoid offensive forms and expressions. You may go out with a man to shoot him through the heart in a duel, but you must bow to him politely first. An insult may even be returned politely. When Lauzun broke his sword in the presence of Louis XIV, saying, "I will no longer serve a king who does not keep his word," the king threw his cane out of the window, adding, "It shall never be said that I have thrashed a man of noble birth!" The thrashing was given morally, and the outraged royal dignity was fully satisfied.

As to polite rebukes they are not uncommon, and are far more easy to administer. Frederick, called the Great, of Prussia, was at least, a very great snuff-taker. To save the trouble of continually putting his hand in his pocket, he had a snuff-box on every chimney-piece of every room in the suit of rooms he occupied. One day, when busy in his cabinet, he saw a page, who fancied he was not observed, unceremoniously tasting the royal snuff. He took no further notice at the time; but an hour afterwards he ordered the page to bring him the box.

"Take a pinch," said the king. "How do you find it?"

"Excellent, sire."

"And the box?"

"Superb, sire."

"Very well, sir; keep it then. It hardly holds enough for us two."

The study of the social code adopted by the world in which we move is, therefore, necessary for whoever wishes to figure creditably in that world. But rules alone are not sufficient—there are exceptional occasions when they fail to apply, and in which we must be guided by the spirit of courtesy. Deference to others, obedience to elders, submission to rank and authority, are the very essence of that spirit. George III. once complimented Dr. Johnson in highly flattering terms respecting his writing. Somebody asked the doctor, "And what did you say to all that?"

"Nothing," was the judicious reply, "Was I to bandy compliments with my sovereign?" He accepted the royal approbation, as was his duty.

A new ambassador, Lord S——, whose social tact was highly spoken of, arrived at the court of Louis XVI. The king wishing to test his politeness, invited him to a shooting party. At the moment of starting to drive to the wood, the king drawing back, gave him the precedence, saying: "Get into the carriage, Monsieur l'Ambassador." Lord S—— did not wait to be twice told to do so. Instead of humbly retreating at attempting to decline so great an honor, he obeyed at once, thus treating the royal invitation as an order, which he was not even permitted to discuss. The king, who was the politest man of the day, perfectly appreciated the move, and remarked with a smile: "Decidedly, Lord S—— is a well bred man."

It is often, therefore, the truest politeness simply to do what you are requested to do.

Politeness is not exactly a virtue, but an imitation and assumption of certain virtues. It induces us to appear kind, self-denying, indulgent, modest, because it would be uncivil and rude to appear the contrary. We are polite for our own sakes quite as much as for other people's. Politeness is the art of disguising our feelings and passions rather than of repressing them; it is a sense of propriety rather than of justice; it does not make a man better, but it renders him infinitely more sociable—as is indicated by the derivation of the word itself, and its synonyme. The root of politeness is polis, a town; courtesy comes to us from courts; and civilitas, according to Ainsworth, is the courtesy which citizens use to one another. Politeness, not content with avoiding everything that can possibly displease, continually and actively strives to please. It modifies the demeanor as well as the conduct, and adds a charm to the most trifling actions. When simply and naturally practiced and without any affectation, it almost amounts to friendship and affection.

Pau is a curious town, a favorite resort of invalids and idlers, whose population consequently consists of a certain number of inhabitants and a very great many strangers. Everybody lets furnished apartments, from the humblest citizen to the highest personage. Generals, Counts and Marquises advertise their rooms "with a south aspect and a fine view of the Pyrenees." There is no harm in this; it is convenient; but it lately gave occasion for a sharp retort.

Madame C——, the wife of one of the richest merchants in Paris, was remarked for the elegance of her dress. Such elegance, displayed by a simple commoner, displeased one of the noble dames of Pau, Madame la Comtesse d'Asterisk.

"What do you call that?" she said, contemptuously glancing at the Parisienne.

"That is Madame C——," was replied to her.

"Ah! yes; I know," the Comtesse answered. "She is a linen draper."

Madame C——, who had overheard every word of the conversation, inquired in turn, loud enough to be heard, and pointing with her finger to the haughty lady, "What do you call that?"

"It is Madame d'Asterisk."

"Ah! yes; I know. She's a letter of lodgings. We think of taking her rooms next season."

In the very highest society the same pair of gloves may not be worn twice; at least they must never betray the slightest trace of having been worn. Morning gloves, walking gloves, evening gloves, must be ever spotless, fresh and new. Consequently, the glover's bill is one of the heaviest items of the personal budget. M. Mortemart-Boisse states that a man of fashion may easily spend eighteen thousand francs, or seven hundred and twenty pounds a year, on gloves. Those who have less than seven hundred a year must compromise the matter as well as they can.

Soon after the Lady Bianca Birndaville disgraced herself by a low match with Mr. Nero Noboly, I happened to dine at a wealthy mansion. Of course every lady had their word to say.

"Poor things! observed a dowager by my side; "they have only eight hundred a year between them."

"No more?" exclaimed the lady of the house. "Why that will only just serve them for gloves."

"It is very lucky for me," I said, "that it is not the fashion to dine in gloves; for I never had eight hundred a year, and most likely never shall."

The fine folks present were good enough not to appear shocked at my bold confession of gloveless poverty, but bore it with the equanimity with which we support other people's sorrows.—London Society.

A Hapless Dictionary Maker.—The Academy of Sciences in a late session has revived a story about one of its former members, which shows that the celebrated "Pon-Jee" sometimes "overdid matters." M. Borste, grammarian, was one of the most retired men in the world. [illegible] dictionary, to which he had devoted all his powers during forty years. Nights of watching and study were come to an end; the last proof sheets of his precious work had been delivered to the printer, and he went to bed with the soothing hope of seeing the work in the hands of the booksellers on the following morning. He awoke from a long sleep to find his bed surrounded by gens d'armes, whose chief informed him he must rise at once, and accompany him as his prisoner. Assertions of innocence were of no avail. Borste was forced to accompany the guard to a carriage, in which he was conveyed to Vincennes, a prisoner of state. The only answer he could obtain to his question was that he was incarcerated as a measure of public safety. For three months he remained in his cell, writing letters to every one he could possibly think of, protesting that he had never done anything but write a dictionary, and that sedition in a dictionary was out of the question. He received no replies until by some chance, a letter he wrote M. Fontanes, grandmaster of the University, reached its destination. The astonishment of M. Fontanes was beyond bounds when he found that M. Borste was a prisoner. He demanded an audience of the Emperor at once. He was received, and the Emperor agreed with M. Fontanes that M. Borste's complicity in any plot whatever was the most ridiculous idea possible. The chief of police was called up, who soon demonstrated the enormity of the offense committed by the learned grammarian. Opposite the word "spoliteur" (despoiler) was printed Bonaparte. Here was a crime! M. Borste was sent for, and explained that the word "spoliteur" had been first used by the Emperor in a speech before the people—in fact, that his majesty had coined the word, and that it was simple justice he had ascribed it to him. The explanation was altogether satisfactory, but the dictionary appeared with the word Bonaparte left out of it.

Sir Walter Scott.—I heard him tell a story or two with a dry kind of humor for which he is distinguished; and though he speaks very broad Scotch, is a heavy looking man, and has little the air of a gentleman I was much pleased with him—he is lively, spirited, and quite above all affectation. He had with him his daughter, a girl of fifteen, the most naive child of nature I ever saw; her little Scotch phrases charmed us all, and her Scotch songs still more. Her father is a happy minstrel to have such a lassie to sing old ballads to him which she often does by the hour together, for he is not satisfied with a verse or two, but chooses to have all the first, second and third.—Memoirs of Lucy Aiken.

The Horse.—If you have the care of horses, remember that a horse is much more easily taught by gentle than rough usage. If you use him well, he will be grateful; he will listen for, and show his pleasure at the sound of your footstep. As to his food, you should do by him as by yourself—"little and often." As for his work, begin early, and then you need not hurry. Remember, it is the speed, and not the weight, that spoils many a true hearted worker.

To Cure Hams.—To every sixteen pounds of ham take one pint of pure saltpetre. Pack in a clean oak chest, sprinkling the salt betwen the layers of meat. Dissolve the saltpetre and pour it over the whole, adding sufficient pure water to cover. Soft water is best. Let them lie UNDER the brine six weeks, then smoke.

A man who had brutally assaulted his wife was brought before Justice Cole, of Albany, lately, and had a good deal to say about "getting justice." "Justice!" replied Cole, "you can't get it here. This court has no power to hang you."

"Can't we make your lover jealous, Miss?" "Oh, yes, sir, I think we can, if we put our heads together."

THE OREGONIAN,

FIRST-CLASS POLITICAL AND FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Published Daily and Weekly.

PROSPECTUS FOR THE FIFTEENTH VOLUME,
(Commencing November 19th, 1864.

The character of the OREGONIAN, which has been regularly issued for fourteen years, being the oldest newspaper in the State, has become so well established, and so favorably known, that we hardly deem it necessary at the present time to announce that it will continue to be a FIRST CLASS INDEPENDENT FAMILY AND POLITICAL NEWSPAPER. We shall spare no efforts towards further improvement and progress, and to make the OREGONIAN not only a complete compendium of current news and passing events, but also a pleasant fireside companion and a faithful commercial guide. It will contain full reports of important naval, military and political movements, with Stories, Sketches, Poetry, Editorials upon current topics, Correspondence from different sources and Telegraphic dispatches up to the time of going to press.

It is the only paper in Oregon that gives full and unabridged Telegraphic Reports, and that receives these Reports in full, expressly for its own columns.

The size of the WEEKLY is [illegible] with the commencement of the present volume, but the price remains still at the low sum of THREE DOLLARS per annum, hoping thereby to secure an increase of circulation as the reward of our enterprise.

Our columns will be devoted to the advocacy of Union principles, and we hope by a candid and courteous discussion of political principles to command readers of every political complexion and the respect of all our readers.

We shall specially endeavor to subserve the interest and meet the patronage of the large and important mining regions of Idaho, Washington and our own State, to publish all matters of interest relating thereto, and do full justice to their growth and importance, and shall endeavor to secure interesting and reliable correspondence from that section of country.

Six months	6 00

For the Weekly,

HARPER'S

NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

Critical Notices of the Press.

It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The fireside never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant (Baltimore).

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of HARPER'S MAGAZINE—a journal with a monthly circulation of 170,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the American People, and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood cuts, and it combines in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—TRUBNER'S Guide to American Literature, London.

The volumes bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading such as cannot be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Boston Courier.
